AMERICANS MISSING IN SMYRNA; CONSUL- ATE IS DESTROYED

British Warn Turks of Bombardment If Any Crime Continues.

BULLETIN.
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Malta, Sept. 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—Hundreds of bodies of victims of the Turkish massacre in Smyrna were lying in the streets of the city when the British hospital ship Maine left there with more than 400 refugees on board. It is stated by Reuters' Smyrna correspondent who arrived here on the Maine today.

Smyrna, Sept. 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—The fire which started in the Armenian quarter of Smyrna early yesterday afternoon had spread early this morning to the Turkish sections of the city and was making rapid headway.

The entire European section is in ashes and countless thousands are homeless. There were hundreds of casualties among persons who were caught in the sections where the flames spread with greatest rapidity. Fourteen naturalized Americans are missing, but all the American born are accounted for. Ten of them are in the suburbs, with American and Turkish guards.

U. S. Consulate Burned
The American consulate general was situated in the burned area. Consul General George Horton and his staff left as the flames swept toward the building, taking with them the official codes and funds, together with the most important records and documents.

An American destroyer sailed for Saloniki with six hundred refugees and another later cleared for Piraeus with 400 persons, including some of the consular staff members of the American benevolent organizations and business men.

Believe Missing Were College Folks

By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, Sept. 15.—It is believed here that the fourteen naturalized Americans reported missing in Smyrna are members of the American International College, which comprises the bulk of the American population in Smyrna. They were at the Paradise College compound, three miles from Smyrna, according to a telegram dated Sept. 12.

Several teachers of this college already have fled.

Grave Concern for Army Remnant

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Mudania, Sept. 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Greek cruisers Giorgos, Averoff and Kilkos, the latter formerly the U. S. S. Mississippi, are at Panderna covering the retreat of the remnant of the Greek army, for whose safety grave concern is felt. The Turks are at the heels of the fleeing Greeks and it is believed the latter are doomed unless the Greek government can provide vessels for their escape.

Two companies of French infantry were sent to this city from Constantinople for the temporary protection of thousands of Christian refugees here, many of whom, panic stricken, are throwing themselves into the sea.

When the Turks invaded the town they notified the French commander that the presence of his troops would not be tolerated, but he stood his ground.

American Consul Arrives at Piraeus

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Athens, Sept. 15.—An American destroyer arrived yesterday at Piraeus from Smyrna with the American consul and several other American citizens and numerous Armenian refugees.

A dispatch from Constantinople last night said all the naturalized Americans in Smyrna were being taken to Athens, accompanied by George Horton, the American consul general, on board the torpedo boat destroyer Simpson.

Turk Nationalists Nearing Constantinople

Constantinople, Sept. 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Turkish nationalist army is now within thirty-five miles of Constantinople. The population is in a state of nervous tension, and the entire city is rife with rumors about Mustapha Kemal Pasha's designs upon the capital.

One story is that the nationalist commander has sent an ultimatum to the allied powers demanding the evacuation of their forces from the city.

MANY MASSACRES IN SMYRNA WERE REPORTED TODAY

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Massacres of far-reaching proportions are reported to have occurred at Smyrna, attending the terrible conflagration which has just swept over the city.

The first reports came from Greek sources and estimated the number of victims as high as 1,000 to 2,000. Later reports from British eye-witnesses and from Americans arriving at Greek ports tended to confirm the massacres and give harrowing accounts of the extent of the devastation wrought.

An English agency dispatch declared the British admiral had warned the Turks at Smyrna that if the massacre continued, the Turk quarter would be bombed.

A correspondent of Reuters arriving at Malta said hundreds of bodies of the victims were lying in the streets of Smyrna when he left and the pillaging and massacring were continuing. The Greeks were not blameless he declares, as they had aroused the Turks by setting fire to villages during the retreat of the Greek army.

The invasion of the British consulate at Smyrna by the Turks and the murder of an official there also were reported.

A Greek semi-official dispatch from Athens quoted an American investigator as estimating the number of victims up to the time of the fire in Smyrna at 1,000. The property loss from the conflagration is estimated in the Greek quarters at $75,000,000.

It seems probable the Turks will be given a joint allied warning to respect the neutrality of the Constantinople district in the meantime and not march upon that city or invade Thrace.

Roads to Dixon Are Being Put in Shape

DIXON KNIGHTS AND LADIES HAD GREAT TIME AT CONCLAVE

Returned Wednesday Eve Filled with Enthusiasm for Order.

The Dixon Knights Templar and their ladies returned from the conclave at Peoria Wednesday evening, with a lot of added enthusiasm which can only be acquired by attending such a wonderful meeting.

A reception committee with a band and a number of the Sir Knights from Peoria met the Dixon cars and escorted the Dixon and Sterling Sir Knights to the Mohammed Temple, where the ladies had been taken by auto. A grand reception for R. E. Grand Commander William Henry Jennings was being held at the temple and as each Commandery arrived they were met at the train and escorted to the Temple and each band in turn serenaded the Grand Commander.

Band of One Thousand
The most spectacular event of the entire conclave was the grand parade which was really a double parade for after the Sir Knights had paraded by the reviewing stand in regular order, the entire line was reformed into a mass formation. The bands were all formed into one immense band with over one thousand musicians, led by all of the drum majors marching in mass formation from curb to curb, twenty-four men abreast. The "colored" were massed and it was a most wonderful sight to see the beautiful silk American flags followed by the flags and emblems of the Sir Knights.

The officers preceding, the Sir Knights following in the same formation. Such a parade formation has never been attempted outside of our regular army and the people who witnessed that spectacle as the parade came down the main street will never forget it. Moving pictures were taken and will probably be shown here in a very short time.

Serenade Grand Commander

The Dixon Sir Knights and ladies enjoyed the trip very much. They serenaded the Grand Commander Sir Knight Wm. Jennings with a song written for the occasion and on the return trip they serenaded the Dixon Commander Sir Knight William Ware Grand Sword Bearer Sir Knight Glen Coe and Dixon's Past Commander Sir Knight Amos Bosworth, each in turn, with impromptu songs. They also serenaded the Rockford and Sterling Commanderies Rockford Commandery responded with a serenade. Sterling Commandery responded by songs sung by one of their Sir Knights. The Dixon delegation returned a very happy but very tired lot of people.

Tilden and Johnston—"Big Bill" and "Little Bill," champion and former title holder—were favorites to come through victorious to face each other in the final tomorrow. As Tilden decisively defeated the ace of the Australian team in this year's struggle for the Davis cup, it was expected that Richards would give Johnston a harder battle to hold his place in the tournament than the champion would have.

New York Central Adds to Peace Situation in the East.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Sept. 15.—Refusal by a number of the country's biggest railway systems to enter into the Warfield-Willard-Jane plan for ending the shopmen's strike on the basis of separate and individual agreements, developed an element of considerable uncertainty today over the scope and effectiveness of the peace program.

While some of the larger systems had flatly rejected the plan, others, however, notably the Chicago & Northwestern and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul had virtually completed arrangements for restoring strikers to their former jobs under terms of the separate settlement plan.

Negotiations were in progress with several roads in an effort by shopcraft system federation officials to effect additional settlements through ratification of the plans.

Strike leaders were said to be intent upon addressing communications to some of the unwilling road asking them to re-consider their rejections.

SUPERVISORS TO CONSIDER PLANS COMMITTEE HAS

Soldiers' Memorial is Also Discussed By County Dads.

BULLETIN
At 2:15 this afternoon the Board of Supervisors voted, 12 to 11, to re-instate the 1922 program of road patrol work for 1923.

After three days of peaceable transactions, the county board of supervisors at high noon today started the fireworks, which at that time, promised to continue for some hours this afternoon. The report of the road and bridge committee in response to the action taken at the June meeting, when they were instructed to devise a plan whereby the system of caring for county roads could be carried on at less expense, caused the eruption. The report which was read to the board follows:

"On the 14th day of June, 1922, this board of supervisors passed a resolution to discontinue and abolish the present county road patrol system at the close of the 1922 patrol season, said resolution stating that the patrol system was too expensive and unsatisfactory. And, under the direction of this board of supervisors your road and bridge committee was directed to present a system for the year of 1923 for the care and maintenance of state aid roads of Lee county, and to report at the September meeting of this board. "Your committee would therefore make the following report on said matter:

"Your committee has most carefully investigated and considered said matter, and we find that, under, "Actual in Relation to State Highways," that all state aid roads, except those for which the state is responsible, shall be under the direct control and supervision of the county board of the county board of the county in which said roads are located, and the county board shall improve, maintain and repair said roads. We find no figures produced to show that the present patrol system is expensive. Under our present system the county is constructing earth roads, scarifying gravel and macadam roads and redressing same, and building and repairing bridges and culverts which does not come under patrol cost.

Hold System Satisfactory.
"And, your committee is further of the opinion that the present county patrol system is satisfactory to the public of Lee county, and further, after due consideration, your committee find to be unable at this time to draft another patrol system which will be less expensive and prove satisfactory to the public, for the improving, maintaining and repairing of the state aid roads for which the county is responsible.

"Therefore, your committee would respectfully recommend that the entire system adopted by the board of supervisors of this county on the 14th day of February, 1922, for the purpose of improving, maintaining and repairing state aid roads of this county be reinstated by this board, and to be in full force and effect for the season of 1923.

"We further recommend that this board make a tax levy of the 25 cent rate, as is authorized by law for such purpose."

Immediately following the reading of the report, Chairman Bauer of the road and bridge committee moved its adoption, but this action was deferred until the next afternoon session, when argument will be heard. It was rumored that the board will rescind their action of the June meeting when the patrol system met with disfavor, but the indications this morning pointed to a split on the adoption of the report.

Supervisor Harry O. Wheeler presented a resolution shortly before noon in which he asked that the board change the route of the state-aid road from Dixon to Ohio to run south on the Pump Factory road instead of the Peoria road, through Walton and then south through East Grove township. He likewise moved the adoption of his resolution. Supervisor W. J. Edwards of Amboy offered an amendment to the original motion, asking that the matter be referred to the road and bridge committee which action was carried when the vote of the board was taken.

Talk Soldiers' Memorial.
Supervisor I. M. Goodwin of Dixon again brought up the matter of providing a permanent memorial for the soldiers of Lee county, veterans of all wars, and in a resolution asked for the appropriation of a sum of $5,000 to be used for this purpose. He made a short talk in presenting his proposition and this was followed by a lengthy discussion. Many members favored the construction of a permanent memorial but did not believe that the amount asked for was sufficient. Supervisor Bauer, who was originally opposed to the purchase of the bronze memorial tablets to be placed in the

BENEFIT BRIDGE LUNCHEON GREAT SUCCESS

The members of St. Agnes Guild of St. Luke's Episcopal church have cause to feel gratified in the success of the most enjoyable entertainment they gave yesterday at the E. N. Howell residence overlooking the banks of the picturesque Rock River. The members of St. Agnes entertained with a benefit bridge for St. Luke's Episcopal church at the home of Mrs. Howell and her mother, Mrs. A. H. Tillson.

Twenty-four small tables were placed on the inviting lawn, in the sunken garden, some were placed under the pine trees, and some near the lily pond. The early autumn flowers, the beautiful shrubbery and the entire lovely surroundings contributed to the pleasure of each guest.

A tempting two-course luncheon was served and then the bridge for the afternoon was enjoyed. There were sixteen ladies present from Sterling. The ideal day and the delightful afternoon made especially so by the hostesses, made it an occasion long to be remembered by all in attendance.

COAL AT HALF PRICE

Coal is one of your biggest items of family expense. You complain bitterly of the high coal prices. Perhaps you don't know it, but nearly every one burns twice as much coal as necessary. You waste up your chimney one-third to one-half of it, as unburned fuel gas and smoke.

This is a scandalous waste, especially in view of high coal prices. Then, too, your furnace is undoubtedly leaky, and worn out, and allows ash dust and smoke to go upstairs. Let us install a smoke and gas burning Cole's Hot Blast Furnace in your home NOW! It will actually reduce your coal bill one-third to one-half.

court house, reviewed his objection, stating: "I was one member of this board who was opposed to the purchase of the bronze memorial tablets to be placed on the walls of the court house. They have been purchased and I am still opposed to their being placed in the court house. They would not be seen by the taxpayers of the county, where the court house is locked up evenings, Sundays and holidays. These tablets, now that they have been purchased, should be placed out of doors, where they can be seen. I am not opposed to a permanent memorial to the soldiers of the county. Other counties surrounding us have memorials and we should have one. I do believe that some plans or specifications should be presented when the appropriation is asked for and then we would have some idea as to what was going to be used as a memorial. I do not think that $5,000 is sufficient to provide a suitable and permanent memorial such as this county should have."

Supervisor Goodwin withdrew his original motion and offered another in which he asked that the chairman appoint a special committee to confer with the various soldier's organizations of the county, to secure plans and specifications for a suitable, permanent memorial, these to be presented to the next regular meeting of the board. This motion was adopted by a unanimous vote.

Whiteside Man Present.

Chairman Henry Allen of the road and bridge committee of the Whiteside county board was present at the morning session and was heard on the subject of the Holland creek bridge which has brought forth a great deal of discussion at this session. He explained that he believed that there was some misunderstanding between the road and bridge committees of both counties, one believing that the bridge in question was within the 80 rod limitation as required by law. He also stated that there was no inclination upon the part of the board of supervisors of Whiteside county to unload a responsibility upon Lee county and suggested that the road and bridge committees of both counties, the state's attorneys and the superintendents of highways, visit the site and ascertain the exact position in the matter. His suggestion in this respect was carried out by the unanimous vote of the board.

have closed the door against the settlement plan today were: Pennsylvania; Union Pacific; Norfolk & Western; Southern Pacific; Chicago & Alton; Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific; Northern Pacific; Great Northern; Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; Missouri, Kansas & Texas, and subsidiary lines.

Other roads still outside the agreement today included: Central of Georgia; Delaware, Lackawanna & Western; Erie; Illinois Central; Louisville & Nashville; Missouri Pacific; Frisco; Wabash; Santa Fe; Chicago Great Western and numerous others.

About fifty roads were generally understood to have accepted settlement proposals with the Baltimore & Ohio; Chesapeake & Ohio; New York Central Lines; Southern; Seaboard Air Line; Chicago & North Western and Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul among the larger systems in the agreement.

Expect Men Back Today.

W. H. Finley, president of the Chicago & Northwestern, and B. B. Greer, vice president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, expressed the hope that many of their shop men would be back on their jobs today or tonight over the entire systems. The Northwestern employees about 12,000 shop men and the C. M. & St. P. about 15,000.

Members of the shop crafts' executive council meeting here with Bert M. Jewell, head of the railway employees department of the American Federation of Labor, were guarded in their statements concerning conferences among themselves and negotiations with road still holding out against the settlement plan.

"Fullest and fairest consideration" by the United States Railroad Labor Board of any issues on which the strike was based was promised by Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the board, who asserted the settlement plan was in strict conformity with the transportation act.

Meanwhile, Atty. General Daugherty's staff of lawyers in the injunction proceedings before Judge Wilkerson, speeded up efforts to complete their evidence tomorrow.

A. F. of L. After Daugherty.

Samuel Gompers and the executive council of the American Federation of Labor at Atlantic City launched plans for demanding the impeachment of Attorney General Daugherty and Judge Wilkerson because of the injunction proceedings.

New disorders included the bombing of the home of William G. Brazon, an assistant foreman in the Louisville & Nashville railroad shops at Boyles, Alabama, a suburb of Birmingham. Five members of the household miraculously escaped injury when the front of the house was wrecked.

Requests for an investigation of conditions growing out of strike disorders at Needles, Cal., were made to Governor Stephens by a party of Santa Bernardino officials by Sheriff Shay. Needles has been the scene of numerous disorders and was one of the points where passenger trains were marooned during the unauthorized walkout of Santa Fe train crews several weeks ago.

Three alleged striking employees of the Chicago & Alton at Slater, Mo., convicted by a jury in federal court yesterday of violating an injunction, faced sentences at Kansas City today. The charges grew out of an alleged assault on two Alton employees, Aug. 28th.

No obstruction will be placed in the way of shopmen returning to work on the railroad parties to the settlement plan as fast as those roads and their system federation chairmen arrange for resumption. B. M. Jewell, head of the railway employees department of

OUT OF THE NIGHT THAT COVERS ME

By W. F. Henley
Out of the night that covers me,
Black as the pit from pole to pole,
I thank whatever gods may be
For my unconquerable soul.

In the fell clutch of circumstance
I have not winced nor cried aloud;
Under the bludgeonings of chance
My head is bloody, but unbowed.

Beyond this place of wrath and tears
Looms but the horror of the shade,
And yet the menace of the years,
Finds and shall find me unafraid.

It matters not how strait the gate,
How charged with punishments the scroll,
I am the master of my fate,

LADIES' SOCIAL CIRCLE OF PRAIRIEVILLE

The Ladies' Social Circle of Prairieville held an all-day meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Henry Belcher of Gap Grove.

There was a very good attendance at the meeting, twenty-five members and five visitors present.

At noon the usual scramble dinner of good things to eat was enjoyed by all. The decorations were two large bouquets, one of mixed asters and the other of carnations and ferns which were very pretty.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. John Praetz playing several selections on the player piano.

The president, Mrs. Laura Royer, then led in the responsive reading which was the 109th Psalm. All united in repeating the Lord's Prayer.

The meeting was then open for the transaction of business which was quite lengthy. It was decided upon to hold a picnic on Sept. 27, at Lowell Park, to which all members and their families are invited to attend.

The next meeting of the Circle will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Aldrich on Oct. 4th.

The day was spent in sewing on quilt patches and all went to their home after having spent a pleasant day.

SOUTH DIXON COMMUNITY CLUB MEETING

The South Dixon Community Club held a meeting with Mrs. Walter Ortleson Wednesday afternoon with an unusually large attendance. The afternoon was spent in sewing and chat, after which the following program was given:

A vocal solo "Fare Thee Well," by Margaret Eberly which was very fine and greatly enjoyed; Mrs. Frank Clessner gave a very good discussion of fall styles; many good points of interest being brought out; Mrs. Ed Henry gave a pleasing solo, "Suzanne River Moon"; followed by a very good reading by Mrs. Mathias Llevan on "Thankfulness."

After the program a tempting luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mesdames Llevan and Tourillot.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Joe Snader.

NUMBER OF FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS CELEBRATE MR. HENRY'S BIRTHDAY

Wednesday evening a number of friends, about forty in number, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Henry about two and one-half miles out on the Dutch road and held a surprise in honor of Mr. Henry's birthday anniversary. He was completely surprised and entered into the evening's pleasure with spirit.

Cards and dancing were enjoyed, George Williams winning the first prize and Ed. Duls the second prize for gentlemen. Mrs. Mathias Llevan and Mrs. Ralph Dixon cut for first honors for the ladies and Mrs. Llevan won, while Mrs. Lauren Henry won the consolation prize for ladies. Delicious refreshments were served and everyone reports an delightful evening, and the guests departed at a late hour, leaving gifts and best wishes for Mr. Henry.

BIRTHDAY AND WEDDING ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED

NATURE LOVES BRIGHT COLORS

We see the truth of this statement in the varied colors of flowers, the vivid sunsets, the birds of brilliant plumage. But we never see it exemplified more attractively than in the person of a splendidly healthy woman. How does nature paint this health? Why, in the rosy cheeks, the transparent skin, the smooth red lips of such a woman. And she molds it in firm flesh and rounded contours. The ailing woman is deficient in natural coloring, and she does not even appear to advantage in clothes that would set off her more attractive side. Many women who long for glowing health will find that they, too, can have these charms if they will give a trial to that remedy which brings strength to frail women—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.—Adv.

BASE HITS

Chicago, Sept. 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—Victories by all four leading pennant contenders—New York and Pittsburgh in the National and New York and St. Louis in the American—left the relative standings of the rivals unchanged today, but improved the mathematical chances of the leading Gotham clubs.

By capturing thirteen of their remaining eighteen games the Giants can win even if the Pirates take all of their remaining sixteen contests. Such an eventuality would give the champions a margin of one game. In the American, where the battle is closer, the Browns, to win, must take twelve out of thirteen remaining games if the Yankees win ten out of fourteen. The American League rivals start a series at St. Louis tomorrow that probably will decide the race.

Joe Bush's brilliant pitching and Babe Ruth's thirty-second homer were high lights in the Yankees' second straight triumph over Chicago, 4-1, while the Browns staged a belated rally to down Boston, 5-3. The Giants out-hit, 15 to 7, called on five hurlers before losing out the Chicago Cubs, 7-5, while the Pirates crushed Boston again, 8-0, with Babe Adams in rare pitching form.

Milton Stock laced out five hits in as many times at bat and Rogers Hornsby hit safely in his twenty-ninth consecutive game while the St. Louis Cardinals made it three in a row from Philadelphia, 9-4. Grimes was hit hard by Cincinnati while Couch was a

THE ORDERLY MAN'S GUN

It is a queer state of society which insists that the orderly citizen shall go unarmed but makes no effective provisions to take the gun away from the thugs.

In one of the cities where crimes involving shooting have been especially frequent, a citizens' committee was organized, with the full consent of the authorities, to cooperate with the police. A lessening of the crime wave was noted.

In a single instance one of the citizens shot at the wrong man. Even then there were extenuating circumstances. But immediately the effect went forth that civilian police aids who carried firearms were doing so unlawfully and must stop. Thereupon the thuggery business picked up.

All of which is not a plea for the wholesale arming of the civilian population but for a wholesale disarming of the vicious element. Until this is done no ordinary police organization can deal adequately with the crime situation, while the orderly citizen, forbidden self-protection, will remain at the mercy of the bandits.

IMMIGRANT HOMES

Many remedies are suggested for America's alien problems. Fresh plans for the selection, restriction and distribution of incoming aliens appear almost every day. Systems without number are proposed for keeping track of them. One most important item receives too little attention. That is intelligent, constructive interest in the home life of the immigrant after he is established here.

There is a good deal of welfare work carried on in these homes now by various organizations, but the field is scarcely touched. Any teacher in the poorer districts of any community to which there is an immigrant drift can tell tales too horrifying to repeat of home conditions among the pupils in her school. Crowded, dirty, sickeningly immoral, they are often hot-beds of disease, discontent and crime.
This is by no means true of the homes of all types of immigrants or of all localities. It applies chiefly to the large cities. But the evil is sufficiently widespread and its results are so menacing to the national safety as to demand general attention.

A better system of selection and distribution will help to correct these evils. So would a check-up system which brought a true record of the condition and activities of these families to some authoritative center every year. But along with these forces there must be more plain, old-fashioned neighborliness and informal missionary work, as well as more organized impersonal welfare work. So long as the alien is permitted or forced to live in festering surroundings, so long he will be a sore spot.

INTERPRETING THE CONSTITUTION

Part of the public manifests much concern over the resignation of Associate Justice Clarke from the United States Supreme Court for the reason, as stated, that it reduces the "liberal minority" from three to two members. It leaves only Associate Justices Brandeis and Holmes to support the so-called latitudinarian interpretation of the constitution against the strict interpretation.

Really, does it make much difference? Is it not a general fact that the two forces are always present and active? Is there not always in the supreme court, as in every institution and committee, a force which favors liberalism and another which leans to conservatism? And is it not true that the liberal is often conservative and the conservative frequently liberal?

It is well that there are counter views and opinions. It is by difference that agreement is effected. It is by difference that the constitution is interpreted as it should be interpreted.

Far more necessary is it that we should all show due respect to the highest tribunal in the land. As long as the court is honest, sincere and loyal, and it has these merits, it must be respected. If it is ever what it should not be, it should and will be reformed. Sound judgment, as well as patriotism, requires us to be deferential to the supreme court.

ANTI-SWEARING CAMPAIGN BEGUN

Persons who are said to be idealists recently organized a society in Verona, Italy, to prevent the use of vulgar language. To the surprise of cynical doubters their propaganda is satisfactorily effective.

There is nothing idealistic in efforts to stop swearing and questionable language. There is nothing so practical as being respectable.

Bad language reveals something of the character or mentality of those who resort to it. It is certainly not an evidence of education or culture.
It is certainly not formal in the best sense.

Good language serves all purposes better than bad language. Bad language is unnecessary and inexcusable. People should not need advice against vulgarity.

CROP CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA
IMPROVED

The interview cabled from London of Edward M. Flish, president of the United States Grain corporation, gives us comforting information as to improved conditions in Russia. Mr.
Flish is a grain expert and a successful business man, used to close observation, and his conclusions are most interesting.

Mr. Flish reports that the peasants are raising large crops this year, and his investigations convinced him that the farm products are of good quality. It is even said that Russia will harvest a surplus this season and will be able to export some grain.

The picture which Mr. Flish draws of the hearts and minds of the farmers is most agreeable. The seeds which the American Relief administration distributed were used carefully, and accident has disclosed that new crops, such as American corn, may be grown in Russia.

The people were extremely grateful to the United States. At first they were averse to accepting favors, but when they learned that American millions were the highest, they gladly availed themselves of the help offered. The peasants, he found, fully appreciate the benevolence of the United States.

Evidently, the farmer is the real Russia. He is anxious to learn, he has business sense, he is appreciative.
The peasant class composes 85 per cent of the population. It is not difficult to see what the future Russia will be. Communism and radicalism can not thrive among people such as Mr. Flish describes the farmers to be.

GARCIA

In San Francisco a retired army officer gets the Distinguished Service Cross for an act of heroism nearly a fourth of a century ago.

He is Andrew S. Rowan, the man who "carried the message to Garcia."
War had broken out between America and Spain. President McKinley wanted to get a letter to Garcia,
Cuban rebel leader, address unknown.
Rowan didn't ask any questions, but tackled and overcame terrific obstacles and "delivered the goods."

He was the original "go-getter."
His fame has been sung in over 20 languages—an universal admission that stalling on the job is a certain road to failure. We all know the price of success. Few are willing to pay it.

COBWEBS

Bootleggers rejoice. Some genius has discovered how to manufacture artificial cobwebs.

A stock of new wine, bottled with mildewed counterfeit labels, is planted in the cellar of "a wealthy family, now out of town, who want to dispose of their wine cellar."

A few handfuls of dust, a little artistic draping with the phoney cobwebs, and another rum-hound is ready to be parted from his bankroll.
Barnum was right.

WOMAN

Ben Franklin's great-grand-granddaughter, Mrs. Ellen Duane Davis, runs for Congress on the Democratic ticket, in Pennsylvania.

If she is anything like old Ben — and she looks as sensible, in her picture—she should be elected. What this country needs most is a few horse-sense leaders of the caliber of Ben Franklin and Thomas Jefferson.
They weren't fire-eaters or shadow-boxers.

PRICES

Senator Capper tells about a certain make of bran, which wholesales at $23 a ton and costs consumers $500 a ton when it reaches them in package form.

The manufacturer would tell you that he has to get the price to cover the high costs of marketing.

There is only one real problem in economics. That problem is distribution—shortening the gap between producer and consumer. The gap, however, steadily widens.

FEET

As tight shoes and higher heels come back in the east, shoe store clerks discover that loose and easy flapper styles have made women's feet fat.

The job now is to get a quart-foot into a pint shoe. It will be done.
Fashion stops at nothing in its long-range tendency to keep women clad as uncomfortably as possible.

The return of wasp-waists is not many years off.

HOME

Rufus H. Gray has lived in the same house for 73 years, in the heart of Boston.

They "built to last" in these days.
How many modern houses will hang together 73 years? You have heard of the new house that collapsed because they took down the scaffolding before putting on the wall paper.

ARMY

The regular army has been cut to an enlisted strength of 125,000. This is about 100,000 fewer than a year ago.

Until Europe gets the same idea through its cement head, it will continue sinking deeper in the mire.

A sport reviewer remarks that there are few pitchers who are am-them this year with the regular dough-winning hand.

President Spiller of the Atlanta

Citizens of Hurrah, Okla., have ob-twilight zone has been found at last.

The Mammoth Oil Company, a Sin-

New York state has 8,000 hiking

A THOUGHT
FOR TODAY

Love never faileth.—I Corinthians 13:8.

I'm proof against that word "failure." I've seen behind it. The only failure a man ought to fear is failure in cleaving to the purpose he sees to be best.—George Eliot.

LEARN A WORD
EVERY DAY

TODAY'S word is—BLATANT.
It's pronounced—bla-tant, with accent on the first syllable, and the first
"a" long, as in "play," but good authorities say originally it probably was short, as in "eat."

It means—bellowing, like a calf;
bawling, clamorous, offensively obtrusive, demanding undue or involuntary attention.

The word's origin is uncertain.
It's used like this—"Nothing," says Senator Robinson of Arkansas, "need be feared by this country from those who make blatant attacks upon its institutions, but beware of those who condone violations of its laws and constitution."

A BIVALVULAR ODE

By Berton Braley

The oyster is a merry bird.
Its ways of living are absurd;
It opens up its shell full wide
And lets its dinner drift inside;
(Some like it raw—I like it fried.)

The oyster is a funny beast.
With no ambition, not the least.
It sits and waits its whole life through
For any fate that may ensue,
(I like it in a cocktail, too.)

The oyster is the quaintest fish.
It hasn't any tail to swish.
It doesn't swim, but stays and stays,
Immobile during all its days,
(I like it roasted various ways.)

The oyster is a curious reptile,
Close-mouthed, its secrets all are kept till
An oyster-man, with manners rude,
Opens it up for human food;
(I like it raw, baked, fried or stewed.
In fact, these bright brisk days of fall,
I like it any way at all.)

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well.

OVERWEIGHT
BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

People who are overweight should endeavor to become normal, not because of appearance, but because it is an abnormal condition and prevents greater activity.

Fat cells do not work and hence the number of working cells is relatively less in a fat person in proportion to the weight, than in a thin person. Also, there is less body surface exposed in proportion to the body weight, and consequently less heat loss. Likewise, fat people are less active, and their cell-engines do not call for so much fuel; so they do not use as much food as lean or muscular people of the same weight. This explains why women do not need the same amount of food as a man of the same weight.

For extreme overweight, diet should be prescribed by a physician to suit the needs of each particular case.
There are, however, certain general principles that are applicable to the average case.

Some foods, in particular, have an enormous fuel value. We eat these quite carelessly, while we might just as well be eating other foods with a lower fuel value and be just as well satisfied, if we but stopped to think.

For instance, it would take about $9 worth of lettuce to make 2,500 calories, while 20 cents' worth of butter or 10 cents' worth of sugar would furnish this same amount.

No one would think of feeding exclusively on any one of these foods.

Do You Remember?

ADVENTURES
OF THE TWINS

Instantly Flap-Doodle turned into a bent-up old man.

Flap-Doodle heard Rubadub, the fairymen, tell Nancy and Nick something.

This was it. Rubadub said he knew a wizard who lived in a Dingle Dell.
"This wizard," said Rubadub, "will help you. He's as smart as pepper wood and he'll find some way for you to get the Fairy Queen's wand that Flap-Doodle stole, just as sure as anything."

"Tee, hee, hee!" laughed Flap-Doodle when he heard this. "He will, will he? Well, we'll see about that!"
Flap-Doodle flew down to the earth (he'd been sitting on a star, you know) and waved his wand three times over his head.

"Magic, magic, cast your spell.
Make me a wizard in a Dingle Dell," he said.

Instantly Flap-Doodle turned into a bent-up old man with long robes and a flowing beard. And at the same time pretty bushes and flowers grew all around with a tinkly little stream flowing merrily along between them.
A pretty arch-way with rose vines growing on it bore some letters which read, "Dingle Dell! Your fortune told for nothing! All magic free! Stop in!"

By and by when everything was ready, along came Nancy and Nick and Rubadub.

"Why, I declare!" said Rubadub.
"This isn't the Dingle Dell I was looking for, but I suppose it's as good as any. Let's go in and see if this wizard can help us catch Flap-Doodle and get back the Fairy Queen's wand."

So in they all marched.

OUT OUR WAY

THE BETRAYER

J. Williams

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The brilliant member of the English Sackit Service and the courageous rescuer of MME. DE SEVENIE and her guests from robbery by Paris Apaches had preferred to be known as ANDRE DUCHEMIN.

It was under this name that he had met, in battle with highwaymen, the beautiful American widow, EVE DE MONTALAIS. Then, in the chateau de Montalais, where Duchemin was a dinner guest, there came that strange motor party seeking refuge from the storm: the American.

WITTAKER MONK; his secretary, PHINUIT; the latter's brother, JULES, and the COUNT and COUNTESS DE LORGNESE.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII

The Apache Strikes Back
DUCHEMIN took back with him to Nant, that night, food in plenty for thought, together with a notion that he had better resign himself to stop on indefinitely at the Grand Hotel de l'Univers and see what he should see.

That fatality on which he had so bitterly reflected, had him now fairly by the heels. Impossible—and the more so the longer he pondered it—to credit to mere coincidence the innuendoes uttered at the chateau by Mr. Monk and his party.

Not there had been malice in that, Duchemin was satisfied, if not some darker purpose which perplexed the most patient scrutiny.

Now malice without incentive is unthinkable. But Duchemin searched his memory in vain for anything he could have said or done to make anybody desire to discredit him in the sight of the ladies of the Chateau de Montalais. Still the attempt so to do had been unmistakable; the Lone Wolf had been lugged into the conversation literally by his legendary ears.

Surely, one would think, that nocturnal prowler of pre-war Paris had been so long dead and buried even the most ghoulish gossip should respect his poor remains and not disinter them merely to demonstrate that the past can never wholly die! Had he, then, some enemy of old hidden under one of those sleek surfaces?

An excellent visual memory reviewed successively the physical characteristics of Messieurs Monk, Phinuit and de Lorgnes, and their chauffeur Jules; with the upshot that Duchemin could have sworn that he had never before known any of these.

And Madame la Comtesse? In respect of that one memory again drew a blank, but remained unsatisfied. When one thought of her some remote, faint chord of reminiscence thrilled and hummed, but never recognizably.

Setting aside then the theory of positive personal animus, what other reason could there be for the effort to fasten upon Duchemin suspicion of identity with the late Lone Wolf? A sinister consideration, if any, and one, Duchemin suspected not unconnected with the much-talked-about jewels of Madame de Montalais.

And then, partly to kill time, he resumed his character as the pedestrian tourist. He took the road in the heart of a day even more oppressive than its yesterday. In the valley of the Doubrle the air was stagnant, life less. After eight miles of it Duchemin was guilty of two mistakes of desperation.

In the first instance he paused in La Roque-Sainte-Marguerite and, tormented by thirst, refreshed himself at the auberge where the barouche and guide had been hired to convey the party from Montalais on to Montpellier. The landlord remembered Duchemin and made believe he didn't, serving the wayfarer with a surly grace.

Duchemin drank sitting on a bench outside the door of the auberge. He could hear the voice of the landlord inside, grumbling and growling, to what purpose he couldn't determine. Before Duchemin was finished he found himself the cynosure of more than a few pair of eyes set in the ill-favored faces of natives of La Roque.

One gathered that the dead guide had enjoyed a fair amount of local popularity. While Duchemin drank, a lout of a lad shambled out of the auberge, carrying a rifle.

A VOICE CRIED: "QUICKLY, MONSIEUR, QUICKLY!"

He caught and saddled a dreary animal, mounted, and rode off in the direction of Nant.

Then Duchemin committed his second error of judgment, which consisted in thinking to find better and cooler air on the heights across the river.

Accordingly he crossed the Doubrle, reached the top in a bath of sweat, and sat down to cool and breathe himself.

The view was splendid, almost worth the climb. Duchemin could see for miles up and down the valley. Across the way Duchemin identified the figure of the landlord, standing in the door of the auberge with arms raised and elbows thrust out on a level with his eyes; the pose of a man using field glasses.

Having rested, he picked himself up, found his road, a mere trail of wagon tracks, and mindful of the cooling drinks to be had in the Cafe de l'Univers, put his best foot foremost.

After a time something, call it instinct, impelled him to look back the way he had come. Half a mile distant he saw the figure of a peasant following the same road. Duchemin stopped and waited for the other to come up. But when he stopped the man stopped, sat him down upon a rock, filled a pipe, and conspicuously rested.

Duchemin gave an impatient gesture and moved on. After another mile he glanced over his shoulder again. The same peasant occupied the same relative distance from him.

In dusk of evening he stumbled down into the valley again and struck the river road about midway between the Chateau de Montalais and Nant. At this junction several dwellings clustered. Duchemin noticed a few shadowy shapes loitering about, but was too far gone in fatigue and thirst to pay them any heed. He had no thought but to stop at the first house and beg a cup of water. As he lifted a hand to knock the door he was attacked.

With no more warning than a cry, the signal for the onslaught, and the sudden scuffling noise of several pair of feet, he wheeled, found himself already closely pressed by a number of men, and struck out at random. His stick landed on somebody's head with a resounding thump followed by a yell of pain. Then three men were grappling with him, two more seeking to aid them, and another lay in the roadway clutching a fractured skull and spitting oaths and groans.

The knot of struggling figures toppled and went to the dust. Duchemin underneath, so weighed down that he could not for the moment move a hand toward his pistol. Half-stifled by the reek of unwashed flesh, he heard broken phrases growled in voices hoarse with effort and excitement: "The knife! . . . Hold him! . . . Stand clear and let me—"

Struggling madly, he worked a leg free and kicked with all his might. One of his assailants howled aloud and fell back to nurse a broken shin. Two others scrambled out of the way, leaving one to pin him down with knees upon his chest, another to wield the knife.

Staring eyes caught a warning gleam on descending steel. Duchemin squirmed frantically to one side, and felt cold metal kiss the skin over his ribs as the blade penetrated his clothing, close under the armpit. Before the man with the knife could strike again, Duchemin, roused to a mightier effort, threw off the ruffian on his chest, got on his knees and, raining blows right and left as the others closed in again, somehow managed to scramble to his feet.

Flurried work told. For an instant he stood quite free, the center of a circle of uncertain assassins whose cowardice gave him time to whip out his pistol. But before he could level it a man was on his back, his wrist was seized and the weapon twisted from his grasp.

A cry of triumph was echoed by exclamations of alarm as, disarmed, Duchemin was again left free, the thugs standing back to let the pistol do its work. In that instant a broad sword of light swung round a near-by corner and smote the group; the twin, glaring eyes of a motor car flooded with blue-white radiance that tableau of one man at bay in the middle of the road, in a ring of merciless enemies.

Duchemin's cry for help was uttered only an instant before his pistol exploded in alien hands. The headlights showed him distinctly the face of the man who fired, the same face of fat features black with soot that he had seen by moonlight at Montpellier-de-Vieux.

But the bullet went wild, and the automobile did not stop, but drove directly at the group and so swiftly that the flash of the shot was still vivid in Duchemin's vision when the car swept between him and those others, scattering them like chickens.

Simultaneously the brakes were set, the dark bulk began to slide with locked wheels to a stop, and a voice cried: "Quickly, monsieur, quickly!"—the voice of Eve de Montalais.

In two bounds Duchemin overtook the car and before it had come to a standstill leaped upon the running-board and grasped the set. He had one glimpse of the set white face of Eve, as she bent forward, manipulating the gear-shift. Then the pistol spat again, its bullet struck him a blow of sickening agony in the side.

Aware that he was dangerously wounded, he put all that he had left of strength and will into one final effort, throwing his body across the door. As he fell sprawling into the tonneau consciousness departed like a light withdrawn.

FRANKLIN GROVE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. Merrill T. MacPherson, Pastor
Sunday, Sept. 17th is Gideon Day in Franklin Grove.
We will have our Sunday School as usual at 9:30 a. m.
At 10:30 a. m. the hour for our regular morning worship, an interesting and inspiring address will be given by one of the Gideons, a member of the Christian Commercial Travelers Association of America. These men are not ordained ministers, but are wide-awake Christian laymen who have a vital message for the world, and are doing a wonderful work, especially in placing the Bible in each hotel room in the land. We are grateful to God for sending these men to us and we want you to be sure to hear their message.

In the evening at 7:30 o'clock, we will all join in a big union service held in the Methodist church, when the several speakers of the morning will address us again. Come out Sunday morning and we feel certain that you will want to hear them again in the evening.
No Christian Endeavor service Sunday evening on account of the union service.

Saturday evening before the band concert, these men will hold a short service, and speak to you. Gather at the band wagon about 7 o'clock.
Let us join in making this a unique and helpful event in the life of our community.

COMMUNITY PICNIC AT ROCHELLE DREW LARGE ATTENDANCE

Over 3,000 Pleasure Seekers Had Fine Time at Picnic.

Rochelle, Ill.—Three thousand people attended the Farmers' and Merchants' old time community picnic held in Southworth's grove here Tuesday.

Outstanding features were the water sports held at the bathing beach at 4:00 p. m., when George May, Eberhart, Saley and Forsythe and Misses Smu and Merrill, of Rockford, gave an exhibition of fancy diving and swimming. In addition to fancy diving the young women gave an exhibition of under water swimming.

Exhibition dives included the back and front jack knife, plain back dive, hand stand dive, hand stand somersault, flying Dutchman, bank somersault, hard spring somersault, 1½ with a half twist front and backward dives.

Burton Knight won the prize for the best ten ears of new corn displayed on the grounds. He exhibited white corn. McNamar was second. Royal Hill exhibited the best yellow corn.

The farmers won the tug-of-war from the merchants.

The Rochelle Cornet band furnished music all day. The showing of four reels of moving pictures on the street, and a street dance closed the day's festivities.

Mrs. Thos. E. Fouser will entertain a company of fourteen relatives in honor of her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Countryman's 90th birthday at home, 627 7th street Friday noon.

Mrs. Countryman was born, Sept. 15, 1832, in Herkimer County, N. Y., and lived to celebrate her golden wedding anniversary with her husband, the late Norman Countryman, who died Feb. 24, 1911. She has resided in Lynville township, 62 years and for 23 years in Rochelle.

She is a member of the double quartette of four Wagner sisters, who married four Countryman brothers, all of whom lived to celebrate their golden wedding anniversaries. Mrs. Countryman's sister, Mrs. Jennie E. Countryman, and a brother-in-law, John E. Countryman, survive of this unusual group.

Two of Mrs. Countryman's three children, Luetta M., now Mrs. T. E. Fouser and Lincoln A., will be present at the birthday dinner. Fayette N., who with his family were here from Sioux City, Iowa, for several weeks this summer, will be unable to be present.

The guest-of-honor is active, lives in the same house but in a separate apartment from her daughter and does her own work. She can read without glasses and is in the full possession of her faculties.

Be progressive, discard the old-fashioned idea that your own wash tub and board can turn out the best work. Give us a trial and see what a revelation of whiteness will reward you. City Steam Laundry, Humphrey & Teeter, 319 First St., Phone 98.

A SCRAP OF PAPER SOLVES MYSTERY

CRIMES I HAVE SOLVED—NO. 1.

BY MICHAEL FIASCHELLI.

One of America's Greatest Detectives and Former Head of the New York Italian Squad.

It was a slow night at headquarters after 11, and no trouble. Suddenly the phone rang. It was a flash from a West-Side precinct.

A woman had been murdered. She was Italian, young and good-looking. Her body was stretched out on the dirty floor of a cheap rooming house.

We searched the room for a clew but found nothing.

She had come in early in the night—alone. No one was seen to leave. Yet there she lay.

The case was entered on the police blotter as "strangled to death by some unknown person."

On the next day we found her home in Brooklyn. Search of her room revealed nothing.

We were about to leave when I noticed a scrap of paper on the floor of a dirty closet. There wasn't much on it—just the name of a shoemaker on the East Side.

But it was enough. We went to see the man.

He was a poor old fellow, incapable of doing any wrong.

When told him that the girl was dead he was horrified. He had known her for some time.

Did he know any of her friends? He did not. But he would try to recall. After a time he reminded himself of one—a married man. But he didn't know his name or address.

He thought and thought. Finally he recalled the name of the man's brother-in-law.

It was night then. But we went to his house and awakened 25 families before we found him.

He told us where the suspect lived.

We went back to Brooklyn, found the house, located the flat and found the man sleeping. A woman and child were with him.

HER BODY WAS STRETCHED OUT ON THE DIRTY FLOOR.

He denied that he was the man sought. We were puzzled. The brother-in-law said that he had no children. Yet here was a youngster asleep with him.

He seemed sincere. He offered to help us look for the man. So we withdrew.

We went back to our information. He laughed. He said that his relative was very shrewd. He had probably put one over on us.

By the time we got back our suspect had fled.

He had paid the mistress of the house $25 for allowing her baby to sleep with them—just to throw us off our guard.

We became convinced that the man was guilty. We sent out a call for him.

Three days later he was found living in a shack on the river front.

The rest was easy.

He confessed. He had met the girl by appointment and had sneaked into her room when no one was looking. He accused her of infidelity.

In a fit of passion he strangled her. Then he sneaked off home without being seen.

He was convicted of manslaughter in the first degree and is now doing time all because of a scrap of paper.

Without that bit of paper we probably would never have found a clew and the Varvara case would have gone down as an unsolved mystery.

Now Klan in Illinois Gets Into the Courts

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 14.—Damages in the amount of $10,000 are asked of the Ku Klux Klan in a suit filed here today against Bertram G. Christie of Chicago, the imperial representative of the Klan in Illinois by James Brockman of Springfield, expelled Klegal of the Abraham Lincoln Local.

The action was brought by Brockman in the circuit court here immediately after the imperial representative had obtained an injunction prohibiting him from collecting any more money or attempting further organization work for the Klan. Mr. Christie styled him as an "imposter." He said Brockman owed the Klan $594 collected for membership, and that he had admitted owing it, but had made no move to pay.

In his suit for $10,000 Brockman answers that the Klan owes him $800 for work done, and that when Christie had him arrested at Mt. Pulaski he subjected him to "false imprisonment."

Our mission is to serve. And in this service we strive to be consistent.

You recognize the fact that we cannot be consistent in our dealings with you unless we treat everybody alike every day in the year.

That's one reason we never have a "sale." A store cannot ask one price today and another tomorrow and be consistent with everybody.

Of course you are entitled to lowest prices always and particularly when you need the goods. Regardless of the day or month, our prices are at the bottom-notch of economy.

Careless Shipping

BECAUSE of careless marking 8,000 packages were turned into the "No Mark Bureau" of the American Railway Express Company as undeliverable in March, 1919.

The company began an intensive campaign of education, trying to induce the shipper to be more careful, and the receiving agents in the express depots to be more exacting in imposing standards of proper marking. The number of unmarked pieces turning up on the lines, as reported to the Scientific American, at once suffered a drop, and by May, 1921, had fallen below 1,500. It has remained in this neighborhood ever since, and the express company now maintains only nine bureaus instead of 20, to take care of these packages.

At the same time the number of claims of all sorts presented against the company has dropped from a high mark of 242,000 in January, 1919, to 50,000 in September, 1921. This means a fall from 14.5 claims per 1,000 shipments to 3.25 per 1,000. The saving to the company in actual indemnities and in expense of tracing shipments is matched by the saving to the shipper and the consignee.

No Artists Wanted.

Throughout Old Lyme and Hamburg, Conn., you are welcome to wander over farm property—unless you are an artist. Signs everywhere forbid artists to trespass, says the Scientific American. The reason given is that many cows have been poisoned by paint-enriched rags thrown away by the colorists.

Criminals Change Looks Through Facial Surgery

WOVEN into the tale of one of the greatest blessings of mankind is the story of how it has been perverted. Along with the accounts of telling of lives saved, miseries alleviated, and happiness restored are the records of how the most desperate criminals have turned this healing power to serve their ends. By its use they have made the detection of crime extremely difficult and have laid a very complicated problem at the doors of the police authorities.

When reconstructive surgery of the face came to the forefront during the war it was immediately recognized as one of the greatest forward strides in modern science. Men were coming into the hospitals with chins blown away, with cheekbones shattered, and nose and forehead literally obliterated. Society faced a tremendous problem in caring for these men whose ability to provide for themselves had apparently been destroyed. The men themselves were gloomy at the prospect of their utter uselessness.

Surgery came to the relief of the situation. Where a chin had been blown away by a high explosive a shinbone was grafted. Where a cheekbone had been shattered a plate was inserted. The bony structure of noses and foreheads was rebuilt and skin grown over it. Men who had been relegated to the dependent class were restored to usefulness.

Disguised Faces.

To one salient feature of this facial reconstruction criminals immediately turned their attention. They noticed that the personal appearance of men whose faces had been shattered and rebuilt was changed. The contour of the nose was a little different. The cheekbone might be higher or lower. A slight difference between the reconstructed forehead and the original forehead would make all the difference in the world. Some of these men were not recognized even by their friends after they had been discharged from the hospitals. Criminals whose pictures had been published on police fliers all over the world saw that by a slight operation their appearance might be changed and they could go their way unrecognized.

Almost any kind of a face a criminal desires can be supplied by plastic surgery. If he has a prominent nose he can have the septum cut down so as to make his nose straight or smaller. If he has a saddle nose—one with a depression—wax can be moulded under the skin to make its contour straight. Another method of accomplishing the same result is by grafting a piece of shinbone on the septum. A thousand and one alterations may be made in the general outline of the nose.

The same thing applies to the lips. Their expression can be changed by the surgeon so that the appearance of the criminal who submits to the operation will be as unlike an earlier photograph hanging in the rogues' gallery as a silk-curtained limousine is different from a motorcycle sidecar. A few cuts with the surgeon's knife and the mouth can be made smaller or larger.

Fingerprints May Be Altered.

If a criminal prefers he may cloak his identity under altered eyelids. He can have the muscles shortened, pulled up, and stitched, and he will look as much like a Chinaman as if he had descended from Oriental ancestors. If he objects to the Oriental slant he may have his levator palpebri cut and his eyelids will droop, changing his whole appearance. If he has sagging cheeks he may have part of the tissue removed and they will appear as normal.

Then, too, the criminal may have his finger prints altered so that the second, third, or fourth time he falls into the hands of the police his finger prints will not agree with those taken on any previous occasion. This altering is accomplished by cutting away part of the flesh and then sewing the edges of the skin together in such a way that the concentric lines form a different impression in the fingerprint gallery. head breadth, length of middle finger. Facial surgery can not change the or left foot, and of the forearm from features upon which the Bertillon system of identification is based. Five die finger. A man might have his measurements are used as a basis in die finger shortened or his left foot at this system. They are the head length, tered, but the mutilation would leave

ILLINOIS CORN CROP SLUMPS; MORE HOGS IN STATE REPORTED

August Crop Report Issued Today By Federal Statistician.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 14.—A slump in the Illinois corn crop of more than four million bushels in August, due to the prolonged drought and scattered days of excessive heat, and an estimated increase of twelve per cent in the number of hogs on farms for fattening, are outstanding changes announced in the August report of A. J. Surratt, federal agricultural statistician for Illinois, which was issued here today.

"The condition of the corn crop," the report says, "is well above the average for the northern half of the state with conditions maintained or slightly improved in some upper west central and northwestern counties, but shows varying deterioration for all other areas of the state. Impairment becomes more pronounced toward the lower west central and southwestern counties where much of the crop is below average. Early fields are mostly favorable and maturing rapidly, but the latter half of the crop varies from fair to poor."

"Yields will be irregular due to the prevalence of barren stalks, stubble and poorly filled ears. Considerable cutting had been done and soil filling was under way at the close of the month."

Threshing is Complete.
The report says the threshing of spring sown grains has been completed.

Returns show the yields of these crops to be below average. Some favorable yields of oats have been made in the northern area, but for the state as a whole the yields of oats and spring wheat are disappointing. Barley yield is nearly up to the average. Hay production has been abundant with quality favorable as a rule. The yield per acre of timothy for this season is 1.32 tons compared with 1.15 tons last year and the yield of alfalfa is estimated at 2.70 compared with 2.59 last year. Early reports indicate about a forty per cent increase in clover seed acreage over that of last season. The condition of the crop is very uneven but reported slightly above average for the state as a whole. Pastures have suffered quite rain spots are either or little feed value or dried up.

Large Fruit Crop.
Tree fruits are a large crop. The harvest of an unusually heavy peach crop is practically over. Shipments of apples have been heavy to date and the market movement of pears has started. Watermelon and cantaloupe crops have been about average, though the yield of late melons was reduced by drought. The broom corn area has been favored with timely showers and a very favorable crop is reported. The September first condition of 93 for broom corn indicates a crop of 6,956 tons compared with 4,400 tons last year and the average of 6,976 tons. Sorghum, millets, field peas and beans are all reported above average but with crop prospects noticeably reduced by the dry weather. The condition of tomatoes continues high but other garden truck is spotted and less favorable though up to average or better as a rule.

Inflammable Films Condemned By Fire Marshals' Meeting

Portland, Me., Sept. 14.—Resolutions requesting congress to enact a law prohibiting the transportation of inflammable films in interstate commerce, effective January 1, 1925, were passed by the Fire Marshals' Association of North America, in convention here today. Copies of the resolution were sent to the President and all members of congress. "The use of inflammable films in theatres and other public places is detrimental to public safety and largely increases the fire risk," the resolution said.

A TRUE RAT STORY

Auburntown, Tenn., 6-22-22.
Stearns Electric Paste Co., Chicago.
Dear Sir: Mr. Robert T. Donnell of Auburntown, Tenn., came in our store the other day and wanted something to kill rats. He told us that he had a Rat Paste. And he put some paste on six biscuits that night and the next morning he found seventeen more rats. And the second night he put out four more biscuits with paste on them, and the second morning he found twenty-one rats in making a total of seventy-one rats in two nights, and there were lots more that he did not find.

This is some big rat tale, but, nevertheless, it is true. Just thought I would write to let you know that your rat paste is good.

Respectfully, KENNEDY BROTHERS.

Will Hear Motion to Release Clark Soon

Marion, Ill., Sept. 14.—Circuit Judge Hartwell announced last night he would hear the motion for release on bond of Otis Clark, the first man indicted and arrested on a charge of murder in connection with the Herrin massacre, some time next week, but did not fix the day. The motion was filed on the day Clark was arrested on an indictment charging him with killing C. K. McDowell, superintendent of the Lester strip mine, near which twenty-two men were killed June 21 and 22.

State's Attorney Delos Duty has announced he would resist any legal action brought to free those on bond who have been charged with murder in connection with the Herrin mine war. Twenty-five of the 38 indicted for murder have been arrested and are being guarded in the county jail, here, by a special guard.

Hedding College to Be Re-opened Soon?

Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 14.—Confidence was expressed at today's session of the Central Illinois Methodist church conference that Hedding College at Abingdon, Illinois, temporarily closed because of lack of funds, would be re-opened and that its future usefulness would be increased. It was reported that the fight of the church for enforcement of the liquor prohibition law was gaining ground and belief was expressed that eventually law and order would be restored in the nation through the influence of the Christian people.

GIRLS! WHITEN SKIN WITH LEMON JUICE

Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate.
